A. Falls Prevention Interventions in the Medicare Population

Author: Paul G. Shekelle, Margaret Maglione, John T. Chang, Walter Mojica, Sally C. Morton, Marika Suttorp, Elizabeth Roth, Shannon Rhodes, Shin-Yi Wu, Sydne Newberry

Description: In this report, RAND systematically reviews the evidence on interventions to prevent and reduce falls. These strategies include multifactorial falls risk assessment and management, exercise, environmental modifications, and education. This report addresses which of these interventions appear to be the most effective, the cost effectiveness of falls prevention interventions, and issues regarding how best to deliver these strategies.
